Our relationship with Grey's Anatomy is longer than most of our relationships IRL. Over the last 15 years (300+ episodes!), the beloved medical drama has given us all the feels — and way more heartbreak than one could ask for. (Um, is anyone else still grappling with the loss of McDreamy? Denny? George?!) The season 14 finale was no different. Wedding bells aside, it ended with a shocking reveal: Teddy Altman, the Interim Chief of Surgery, is pregnant with Owen's baby. What does that mean for Owen and Amelia? Oh, season 15 is already giving us the drama we crave. Grey's Anatomy Season 15 Grey's Anatomy Season 15 The landmark 15th season is longer than usual. Grey's Anatomy's 15th season is making history. First, there was Ellen Pompeo's massive $20 million deal. Then, it was revealed that the show is on track to dethrone ER as the longest-running medical drama of all time. And that was before they announced that they were adding 3 additional episodes at the end of the season, making 25 episodes total. This is only the third longest season in the show's history — season 2, for example, had 27 episodes. Your favorite characters are still around. View full post on Instagram The gang's all here (kind of)! Seattle staples Meredith Grey, Alex Karev, Miranda Bailey, Richard Webber, Owen Hunt, Jackson Avery, Amelia Shepherd, Jo Wilson, Maggie Pearce, and Andrew DeLuca are all back. There are a few key character changes (some good, some bad). View full post on Instagram Grey's Anatomy Cast Looks Different This Year Still crying over the departure of Dr. Arizona Robbins (played by Jessica Capshaw) and Dr. April Kepner (played by Sarah Drew)? Same. While some fans were quick to point fingers at Ellen Pompeo's record-breaking salary negotiations for the sudden exit of these beloved characters, the decision ultimately came down to the writers — not business execs. "The only thing as constant on Grey's Anatomy as Ellen Pompeo is our penchant for reinvention. It is a part of our success and what keeps the show exciting. We love these actresses and we love these characters and it felt true and right creatively to wrap up their stories," executive producer Krista Vernoff wrote in a statement. Getty Images Teddy (played by Kim Raver) is back — as a lead character. The cardiothoracic surgeon returned to Grey Sloan Memorial Hospital in season 14, where it was revealed that she was pregnant. In the fall finale, she finally told Owen that he is the father of her baby and before he had time to process the news, Amelia walked in. Talk about awkward. There's also some fresh blood in Seattle. Enter Chris Carmack, the 37-year-old heartthrob who played Will Lexington on CMT's Nashville. And get this: His nickname is "Ortho God." The new McDreamy/McSteamy, perhaps? Not too long after he made his debut, "Ortho God" (or more properly, Dr. Atticus Lincoln) found himself in a messy love triangle with Meredith and DeLuca. And people, while mesmerized by his blonde locks, don't think his nickname — or romance with Meredith — suits him. View full post on Twitter Dr. Nico Kim, played by newcomer Alex Landi, also joined Grey Sloan Memorial Hospital this season. As the first-ever openly gay male surgeon on the show, Nico is already wrapped up in a workplace romance with Levi Schmitt a.k.a. Glasses. John Fleener/Getty Images James Pickens Jr. who plays Dr. Richard Webber dropped hints about this romance back in September: "He (Dr. Nico Kim) catches the eye of one of the interns, and it'll be interesting to see how it all plays out." Very interesting, indeed. Greg Doherty/Getty Images There's still another new character who hasn't made their debut! Dirty Dancing actress Jennifer Grey is slated for a multi-episode arc this season. While details are sparse, there's buzz that she'll play Jo's estranged mother. Regardless, it's a sweet moment for Grey: Her father Joel Grey starred as one of Izzie's patients in the season 6 episode, "New History." And one major character made a comeback: THATCHER. GREY. IS. BACK. It's been seven years since we've seen — or even heard about — Meredith's dad, played by actor Jeff Perry. (IRL Perry was busy playing Cyrus Beene on Shonda Rhime's other TGIT hit, Scandal.) Just like the past, his return to Grey Sloan Memorial Hospital is complicated. Danny Feld/Getty Images In case you need a refresh: Thatcher, who was once married to Meredith's mother Ellis, wasn't part of his daughter's life for nearly 20 years. He remarried and had two more children, Lexie and Molly Grey. With the help of his late wife Susan, Thatcher became more invested in Meredith's life as he got older and even sought her medical help for kidney stones and a liver transplant. This time, he's sick but the severity of his illness remains unclear. Romance is dead for Meredith. View full post on Instagram First came McDreamy, then came Nathan Riggs, and now well, it looks like Meredith Grey is trying to figure some things out for herself. "Meredith [is going to] have a new trajectory that is more focused on who she is as a single mother and surgeon — including her emotional investigation into a medical condition that is very close to her own family background and history," ABC entertainment president Channing Dungey told TVLine. Psst, she's talking about Meredith's father. And no one's happier about this change of pace than Meredith herself: "Ellen has spoken very loudly about how she doesn't want all of Meredith's adventures to be romantic ones." Or is it? We all knew it was too good to be true. At the start of the season, Meredith and surgical resident Dr. Andrew DeLuca (played by Giacomo Gianniotti) got it on. Grey's fans will remember that last season, DeLuca came on to Meredith and she said she wasn't interested at all. Looks like the times have changed. But that was before "Ortho God" was brought into the picture. Now, Meredith is trying to figure out if she goes for a fun fling with "Ortho God" or something more serious with DeLuca. "Her dating adventure has boiled down to [that] triangle," Vernoff told TVLine. "The question this season is not 'Will Meredith Grey find love again,' but 'With whom will she find love?'" Everyone else is still feeling the love. This year's theme is "Season of Love." And the end of season 14 set it up nicely with Teddy's pregnancy reveal, and Alex and Jo's wedding. This aligns with Vernoff's goal for the show's coming seasons: "There were a lot of people mad at each other and hurt by each other, and my goal was to bring in more joy and more light and more humor." We could use a little more humor — and a lot less heartbreak — in our lives, HBU? Rumor has it that this will be Richard's final season (we wish we were kidding). We apologize in advance: The internet is throwing around the idea that Richard Webber, the hospital's former Chief of Surgery, may not survive the entire season. Gulp. View full post on YouTube Since season 14 had more of a rom-com feel, people are speculating that something MAJOR is going to happen in the coming season. And the biggest shock would be one of the show's original characters dying. His alcohol addiction and frequent breakdances don't help either. Viewers, however, aren't having it: View full post on Twitter Grey's isn't over. As of right now, you can count one more season of the medical drama. Ellen's $20 million deal covered the 15th and 16th season of the show. So, that shows the show through 2020. After that, however? In an interview with Entertainment Weekly, Ellen hinted that the show might be over for good after season 16: "I am really feeling like we have told the majority of the stories that we can tell," she said. "It's about time that I mix it up. I'm definitely looking for a change." We're still not sure how to feel about this. In the meantime, we'll just keep watching. Danny Feld/Getty Images Freaking out about the possibility of Grey's Anatomy ending after season 16 next year? As your doctor would say: Remain calm, take a deep breath, and let your blood pressure lower. We pulled together all the best medical shows from the past three decades to help fill the void, and we promise they bring all the drama, tragedy, soul searching — and yes, all the good-looking docs. Check out new and old medical shows to add to your queue! Grey's Anatomy season 6 started with a bang and ended with many bangs! After some lackluster themes and episodes in past seasons, season 6 returns to redeem the show in its entirety by providing engaging and action filled drama with every episode. With a merger with another hospital and new groups of doctors, the storylines begin to take on new twists and turns: Everyone is devastated by George's death, though most block it out, but at one point or another, they each cry for their loss. Thatcher needs a new liver and Lexie immediately gets tested. She is not a match and asks Meredith to test. She is reluctant at first, but then tests and finds out she is a match. She is laid up in bed for awhile after the surgery. The Chief announces that Seattle Grace will merge with Mercy West. Reed, April, Percy, and Avery are some of the residents that come from Mercy West. At first they don't fit in, but eventually, things go smoother, even though there is a lot of competition for surgeries. Izzie disappears and Alex doesn't know if she's continuing her treatment. He repeatedly tries to call her, but she doesn't call him back. When she does return and finds out she's cancer free, she wants to get back together with him, but he says that he deserves better. He starts dating Lexi, but when he thinks he's dying, he calls for Izzie. Owen gets Teddy Altman, a cardiothoracic surgeon who was in the war with Owen to come to the hospital. Cristina loves her, but the problem is, so does Owen. Owen loves Cristina and Teddy, and Teddy finally makes him choose and he chooses Cristina. Bailey begins dating anesthesiologist Ben Warren and she is much happier until she sees him flirting with a co-worker. He tells her that it's fake flirting and that he does it so that she'll be nice to him when she's scheduling, but that he really cares about Bailey and that's really flirting. Meredith realizes that the chief is drinking, but covers for him. She mentions it to Derek and asks him not to tell anyone. He holds off for awhile but then tells the board. They send Webber to a rehab facility and make Derek chief. Derek hates being chief because he doesn't have time for surgeries. When Webber comes back, the board doesn't let him resume his job right away, so he works under Derek as an attending. Arizona and Callie break up because Callie wants kids and Arizona doesn't. After a death scare, Callie says she can live without kids, but she can't live without Arizona. Arizona says she wants lots of kids. Mark's daughter finds him and tells him that she's pregnant. He invites her to live with him, so Lexie leaves. When the baby is born, Mark wants to keep him, but Arizona talks him out of it, saying that the baby has good parents who are waiting for him. Meredith finds out she is pregnant, but later that day there is a shootout and she miscarries before she even has a chance to tell Derek. Gary Clark brought his wife Allison to the hospital, but they couldn't save her. She was Webber's and Lexie's patient, and against Gary's wishes, they turned off the machine that was keeping her alive because of an advanced directive she'd signed three years earlier. Several weeks later, after a lawsuit, Gary comes into the hospital and asks Reed where the chief is and she blows him off, so he shoots her. Alex comes in to see what happened and he shoots him. Alex drags himself to the elevator. April trips over Reed as she's walking while writing in her journal. She is in shock but manages to tell Derek that Reed is dead. Derek calls security and the police and is instructed to lock down the hospital. Gary shoots Percy, but not Bailey because she says she's a nurse. When Gary leaves, she tries to save Percy with the help of her patient. They drag him to the elevator, but the elevators aren't running because they are on lockdown and Percy dies. Gary shoots a nurse, and then Mark and Lexie find Alex and try to help him. Gary finds Derek and while Meredith and Cristina watch, Gary trains his gun on Derek. Derek talks him down, but April comes in and then Gary shoots Derek. Cristina tries to keep Meredith from going to Derek, but she does after Gary has left. They get him to an OR and Cristina operates. Gary finds Lexie and says that he is there to shoot Derek, Webber, and her because they are the ones who let his wife die. Gary is shot in the shoulder by a sniper. Owen and Teddy make it out, but Owen goes back in after Cristina. Webber, who had not been in the hospital, slips by the police and makes it in. Owen finds Cristina operating on Derek with a gun to her head. Gary wants her to stop. Owen creates a diversion and gets shot. Avery unplugs the heart monitor and Gary thinks that Derek is dead and as soon as he leaves, they begin to operate on him again. Cristina tells Meredith to take Owen next door and get the bullet out of him. April notices that Meredith is bleeding and Meredith says she's having a miscarriage. Webber finds Gary, and Gary says that he only has one bullet left so he can't shoot Webber and then himself like he had planned. Webber says he can shoot Webber and then go to jail, or shoot himself and go to the afterlife with his wife. He shoots himself.
